Next Wednesday Dr. Yevgeny Levich will present a special seminar on the status of Soviet scientists not permitted to con­ duct research. (2 p.m., 269 Downs) A general discussion of the topic will commence at 3 with a press conference. Those of you who can’t attend the afternoon session, a morning meeting at 11 will be held under the auspices of the GSC. Unfortu­ nately, with usual graduate perseverance, a locate has not yet been chosen.

We Weren’t All Born in Freedom’s Fat City

The situation of Dr. Levich, his wife Vera, and his father, Dr. Benjamin Levich, provides a classical case of governmental harassment and violation of basic human rights.

Born in Moscow in 1948, Dr. Yevgeny Levich completed his studies at the University of Moscow at the age of 18. By age 22 he had received the degree of Ph.D. from the Landau Institute of Theoretical Physics, working under the supervision of Academician Ya. B. Zeldovich. He applied for permission to emi­ grate to Israel in February, 1972 and shortly thereafter was dismissed from his job at the Institute of Chemical Physics of the Academy of Science and Institute of Applied Mathematics in Moscow.

In 1973, despite two military exemptions (high priority science job and medical unfitness), he was ordered to report for military duty as a private. He refused to do so. One month later, he was forcibly arrested in his apartment and brought to the Moscow Cancer Dispensary where he was a regular patient. He was sent to a camp for military criminals in Tikhaya Bay, Arctic Zone and assigned to heavy unskilled labor under conditions intolerable for one with his medical condition.

To a large degree, the treatment he received was in retaliation for the activities of his father, noted electrochemist Benjamin Levich, the senior Dr. Levich is a Corresponding Mem­ ber of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and the highest ranking Soviet Jewish scientist to apply for emigration.

Protests from free world scien­ tists resulted in Levich’s release from the labor camp in May 1974 and in April 1975, he and his brother Alexander, together with their wives, were finally allowed to leave the Soviet Union. Their parents remain in the Soviet Union despite high level Soviet promises that they will be allowed to leave.

The assurances to Dr. Benjamin Levich were such that much garbage as the KGB – undoubtedly under the political guidance of the central government – back-tracked in the earlier promises. The events are outlined below.

February 18, 1974: Called to Academy to meet with several Academy officials including the KGB officer responsible for security arrangements in the Academy and its institutions. Told that it had been decided to reconsider his secrecy-clearance and that new clearance would be issued for that purpose.

April 17, 1974: Called to the office of Academician Frumkin, director of the Institute of Electro-Chemistry, Frumkin had signed the original security-certifi­ cate. When Dr. Levich, told Levich that he had been ordered to reconsider the matter.

May, 1974: Levich was in­ formed that the question of evoking his secrecy clearance was still under consideration and that matters were going well. The committee formed for this pur­ pose included Academician Emel’yanov, a well-known expert of the committee on atomic energy.

June 20, 1974: Levich met with high-ranking officials, in­ cluding Secretary of the Academy Skyabin; Dr. Frumkin; the former chairman of the Academy’s KGB depart­ ment, and a KGB general. He was informed that after re­ considering the matter of his secrecy clearance, the committee decided that all but one item included in his secrecy clearance certificate were now invalid, and the former term of validity of that one item would expire in one year. It was also stated that for the time being the term of the KGB, Andropov, approved and confirmed this decision.

June 30, 1974: OVIR director Colonel Federer house president that Levich could leave by the end of 1975, six months after the formal term of his secrecy clearance had expired. The Colonel noted that the decision was made by top-rank officials.

December, 1974: Dr. Levich was alarmed by the delayed departure of his son. He was told by a KGB officer there was no reason to think that the

by Carl J Lydic

Once again, we must decide the issue of which food service we want for at least the next year, and this time we have four to choose from. Of the six food services invited to submit bids, one showed no interest at all, one took a look at the current operation and decided that there were too many variables it couldn’t pin down, and declined to bid.

This left us with a field of four bidders, viz: ARA, Professional Food Management (PFM), Saga, and Greyhound Prophet (GFP), the incumbent. The former three of the bidders have submitted, in addition to the bids, booklets indicating typical menus. The booklets and bids were submitted to Mr. Robert Gang, who has discussed them with his immediate super­ visor, the Master of Student Houses, and both the present and former IHC chairmen. Further discussion took place at the IHC meeting Thursday night, and the booklets detailing menus are being reviewed by inspection by stu­ dents in the Housing office.

The next step currently being considered is a request from a committee consisting of a representative from each house (prob­ ably the presidents) to sample the food and take the operation of PFM and Saga at other colleges in the area. The com­ mittee will report to the IHC on its conclusions. Representatives from the companies will come to Tech to discuss (confi­ dentially) whether they are interested in being considered by Tech or can see to be likely in their proposals.

Finally, the IHC will probably circulate a ballot (similar to the questionnaire used to get input on whether to seek new bids) to determine student reaction to the various bids, and submit its recommendation to Mr. Gang.

We're looking for one political activist on this campus.

That's right—just one individual committed to liberty should be reading this ad. Could it be you?

We're the Young Libertarian Alliance—the college affiliate of the rapidly-growing national Libertarian Party. We've organized YLA chapters on every major campus, and we need a coordinator right here.

Are you qualified for the job? The YLA coordinator must be someone who's dedicated to achieving a free society through political action. He or she will be responsible for establishing a YLA chapter, organizing meetings, rallies and demonstrations, and publicizing libertarians.

The Libertarian Party, though less than five years old, is now organized in all 50 states. Our platform calls for a strict respect for civil liberties, a non-interventionist foreign policy, and a free-market economy. Roger MacBride, our presidential candidate, is a non-politician who recognizes that the Republican and Democratic Parties are entrenched, establishment institutions whose only purpose is the perpetuation of their own power.

The Libertarian Party is a new and dynamic political force that's committed to individual freedom and opposition to government oppression in every form.

If you think you've got what it takes to be a YLA coordinator, write or call us. We've got a campus information kit that will get you started. And we'll give you all the help and advice you can use.

One final word: As a YLA campus coordinator, you'll do a lot of hard work and you'll be tired. But there is one small compensation: You'll be helping to achieve Freedom in Our Time.

Pissed Off

By Geoffrey Somner

5:40 Friday, March 12 I am thinking of a final I will soon take. I hear a splashing sound. There, on a Blacker balcony is some idiot relieveding himself into the parking lot. Some other nerd is with him watching. I did not see either one clearly and did not recognize them. What are they doing there? I am, it was disgusting and revolting. It is people like you who thoughtlessly wreck another man's property, that it is the second-most discussed topic of the physical environment of Caltech. Anyone who walks by will have the opportunity to be nauseated by the stench of the puddle you left. In case you didn't know, it is customary, for sanitary and aesthetic reasons, to use a toilet when one is available. I am sure other houses would be glad to let you use their facilities if every single toilet in Blacker House is in use. For the sake of others, next time act like a toilet-trained human instead of a mole.

Parking Policy

Beginning Monday, April 5, there will be a new policy for student parking to be enforced in the Olive Walk. The IHC has set the following guidelines:

Beginning at 8:00 AM and 5:30 PM, all student tickets will be allowed to drive or park on the Olive Walk. Any car found outside the Olive Walk will be immediately ticketed, or, if there is a record of more than three tickets, the car will be towed at the owner's expense. Students cannot make deliveries for purposes of loading at any other time except during these hours, clearance may be obtained from Campus Security.

From 5:30 PM to 8:00 AM weekdays, and on Saturday and Sunday, the Olive Walk will be open to student use. However, parking may be done only on dirt areas. Cars parked on brick or cement will be immediately ticketed, or, if there is a record of more than three tickets, the car will be towed.

Note that there are only three ticketing violations below towings rather than fines as previously. Repeated violations will result in many towing and the owner's expenses will be brought to the attention of the Master of Student Houses.

Women Degraded by Supercock

To the Editor of the Tech:

At Decompression Chamber on Sat., March 14 I poured cups of water on a film called "Supercock" that was being shown. I would like to explain to the Caltech community why I felt the need to take such an action.

I came to Caltech six months ago as an undergraduate exchange student. Since then, I have been appalled by the degree of sexism on this campus. At a pointed example, on going through the Caltech bulletin (Sept. 1975) I counted six women (only two in the sciences) in the professorial ranks, out of almost 250 people. How are women students supposed to take themselves seriously when they see how rarely women are given good jobs in the sciences? And how are the men students supposed to take the women students seriously? I would like to think they didn't like the showing of "Supercock," destroyed any illusions I might have had. How can men who watch films showing naked women in courts treat women students as equals? Obviously, these two views of women are mutually exclusive.

Several months ago, there was some discussion in this paper of the need to have more female students at Caltech. I feel it will be a long time before this happens. Any institution where a film such as "Supercock" can be shown with so little objection, does not deserve to have women attend it. No one should have to see themselves depicted as a sex object while trying to get an education.

It was my anger and frustration with having to do just this that compelled me to voice my opinion. I hope I have also forced some people to reconsider their opinions.

Sincerely yours,
Elise Ghetian

Research
A grant from the Richter Foundation will again this summer support research by Caltech undergraduates in mathematics. Six individual grants providing a stipend of up to $950 for ten weeks are available. Application forms may be picked up in the Math office (253 Sloan) and should be returned to Richard Dean (362 Sloan) by April 12. Any Caltech undergraduate may apply. Last summer research awards were made to Leslie Deutsch, David Dummit, Carl Mueller, James Seales, James Shearer, Bert Wells, and Hugh Woodin.

Lose Weight
The Health Center weight control & exercise program will have a discussion and demonstration of relaxation techniques. The date is Wednesday, April seventh from 12:00 noon to 1:00 PM. John Dykman, Institute Psychologist will be the speaker. Several relaxation techniques will be presented and the audience will have a chance to practice each of them. Loose, comfortable clothing is advised. The entire Caltech community is welcome. Coffee & Tea will be served in the lounge. There is no charge for this lecture demonstration.

Pleading Before UASH

Many undergraduates during their stay at Caltech, will find it necessary to petition the Undergraduate Standards and Honors committee (UASH) at least once. This article will give an overview of what UASH does and what its general policies are. One caveat is that UASH policy changes frequently. This article is intended only as a general guide and as such is not meant to replace the UASH petition manual.

UASH spends most of its time considering reinstatement petitions. A student needs to petition for reinstatement under the following circumstances: 1) failure to maintain a 1.4 GPA for a term, 2) failure to maintain a 1.9 GPA for a course, or 3) receipt of a D or F for one or more terms for non-fraudulent reasons. Students who have only failed two terms or two after flunking out will be refused reinstatement. Those who have only failed one term or two after flunking out may be allowed to drop a course before Drop Day. You may be allowed to drop the course if a letter from the Registrar is submitted stating full intent to withdraw. This statement should indicate why you won't be able to complete the term of underload. It should be signed by your advisor or don't submit the petition until you are ready to do so.

A popular misconception among undergrads is that one can routinely take a leave-of-absence after Drop Day. Such a leave, however, is tantamount to dropping all your courses and thus you must petition UASH. As with late drops you must show that you took action to go on leave before Drop Day but that extraordinary circumstances (Bubonic plague, terminal cancer, etc.) prevented you from completing action on time. It is generally not sufficient to state that you intended to take a leave of absence before Drop Day — you must show that you actually took steps to complete the necessary paperwork. It may seem a contradiction of the Honor System that UASH will not merely accept a student's word that he was going to leave (or drop) before Drop Day and instead requires that the intent be demonstrated by an action, however, UASH does not wish to be placed in the position of interpreting what was in a student's mind on Drop Day. The committee that maintains the more concrete standard. (As the committee makes no decision governing what was in a student's mind on Drop Day, it must assume that students intending to leave or drop are just as likely to initiate necessary paperwork as students who have no intention of leaving or dropping. —ED.) Petitions to take fewer than 36 units are another matter considered by UASH. Caltech has a policy of not allowing people to be part-time students. Thus, except in rare circumstances, a petition will not be accepted unless one is willing to take the chance of failure.

A number of other types of petitions are also handled by UASH. Petitions to add courses after Add Day are generally approved if they have the instructor's approval. Overload petitions are generally approved if you are doing well academically. Petitions to change a course from graded to pass-fail after Drop Day are handled along the same lines as late drops.

Occasionally a situation may arise in which a student needs to know before the regular Registration Day UASH meeting whether or not a petition will be approved. Such problems can be handled by bringing the petition to the attention of the UASH chairman — currently David Aldrich, Wales. Occasionally UASH has an extra meeting sometime around Drop Day and the petition could be taken up then. In other special cases (the French Foreign Legion wants to see your student deferment) the Chairman may take action on the petition himself after consulting with other UASH members.

There is, however, the Honor part of UASH. Every third term the committee meets to select the recipients of the Sigma Xi, Green, Clark, Froelich, Royal Society Awards. In addition, the committee approves the undergraduate graduation list and the graduation with honors list.

The Airwave Sitcom Popularity of MTM

This week we will look into five of the most popular sitcoms on the air, and see if you can guess which one is coincidentally or not, all share a common heritage. These shows are all produced by MTM (Mary Tyler Moore Enterprises), easily identified by the meowing tabby cat (a la MGM) at the conclusion. MTM, along with Norman Lear, are the two dominant, creative forces in commercial television today, primarily on CBS.

The Bob Newhart Show (Saturday 9:30, CBS) offers that venerable comedian as a Chicago psychiatrist, his wife (Suzanne Pleshette) and their day-to-day lives, coping with their friends and patients. Showcasing his own lives, coping with their friends and patients. Mary Tyler Moore (Saturday 9:00, CBS), a much honored, popular sitcom show about a mid-thirtysomething, Minnesota single girl's daily-todays struggles as associate producer of a TV news show. The cast is excellent, the writers are not afraid to explore diverse, meaningful subjects, as well as just plain good, clean fun.

A fine example of the depth of the cast is the fact that two of the show's principal characters left and now have their own CBS programs. Exampleary of MTM's success is the alteration of the theme song's lyrics. First season "... you just might make it after all!" Now: ... you're gonna make it ..."

Doc (Saturday 8:30, CBS) is a cutey show about a crusty old doctor, his family and patients. (Sounds familiar, you say?) This show also possesses a superlative cast. In addition to Valerie Harper, David Groh is fine as her husband, Joe Girard, Julie Kavner is very good in the role of the overweight sister, Brenda. Nancy Walker is absolutely superb as their auntsome mother. This year Miss Walker owns the distinction of being the only person ever to receive two best supporting actress Emmy nominations in the same season. Interestingly, this decision in NBC's McMillan and Wife). Rhoda is witty, unpretentious, and great.

Phyllis (Monday 8:30, CBS). This season MTM's downstairs neighbor (Cloris Leachman) en ters the show. Now: "Phyllis" and her daughter Bess (Lisa Gerritsen) packed up and moved to their in-laws in San Francisco, virtually penniless. Finding herself in a muchbeam environment she was 20 years before (i.e. unmarried). Phyllis is trying it all over again. This does not, however, transpire without difficulty. After all perspective is 90% of the game. Cloris Leachman, as always, is magnificent in this role. She does it a great justice, with her perfect comedic timing.

ATTN
All Graduate Students and Research Fellows

The Master's office is soliciting applications for Resident Associates to fill the positions opened by the four Resident Associate who plan to leave at the end of this academic year. The positions become effective the beginning of the academic year. Typically, the R.A.s are available for consultation, guidance, and sometimes just companionship. They are the liaisons between the houses and the Master's office.

R.A.s are paid $1000 per academic year, plus room (furnished apartment in the house and maid service) and board. They are given a supplemental food allowance of $85.00 per term person, and, in addition, some reimbursement for hosting social functions. R.A.s can be single or married, and have one or two children.

I should like to urge all interested graduate students and research fellows to apply. The deadline for receiving applications is April 10. You may pick up an application at the Master's office on the Olivine Walk anytime before that date.

I, from the USSR, would like to emphasize it; I am lince even in a narrow humanitarian question are a bureaucratic clearance were a bureaucratic countries—participants of the Helsinki Session: the departists of scientists and skilled specialists, both of "refusniks" and new applicants, has practically stopped. Thus, the situation of this especially discriminated category has been changing only for the worse. 3) as to reconsidering applications of family reunion "in a positive and humanitarian way", including even the cases especially emphasized in the Helsinki document—those of reunification of aged and sickly parents with their children. 4) officials state that they have not got any new instructions in the question of family reunification after Helsinki Session. 5) on the other hand officials have begun using the Concluding Act of the Helsinki Session to substantiate their refusals. Denying applications under the pretext of "shaving classified information" they refer hypocritically to obligations accepted by the countries—participants of the Helsinki Session in a humanitarian field.

The situation existing in the question of family reunification contradicts obviously the spirit and the letter of the Helsinki Session.

The urgent personal intervention of leaders of countries-participants of the Helsinki Session to respect the rights of Academician A.D. Sakharov has practically stopped. Thus, the situation of this especially discriminated category has been changing only for the worse.

Your letter to Letter L. Brezhnev, G. Y. Giscard d’Estaing, O. Schm., H. Wilson is one of the few applications under the Helsinki Decision to postpone his sons’ admission to the USSR. I believe, that Andrei Sakharov, a scientist and a humanist, just as well as other sensible people, this situation might be hostile to genuine detente? The three times Hero of Socialist Labour of the USSR, the many times Hero of the USSR Academician Sakharov has done for the might of this country more than anyone else among scientists nowadays. Is that not actual patriotism?

Many of you who have known Andrei Sakharov personally cannot but believe that he is always impelled by profound love for his people and for the whole of mankind. I think that your mistreatment of Academician Sakharov might objectively damage the cause of scientific cooperation, the latter playing a significant role in the process of detente?

Then why did you do this? Most likely you do not believe in God. Therefore God’s judgement does not frighten you. There exists a judgement of contemporaries and of those to follow.

Finally there exists the most relentless of all judgements—the verdict of one’s internal conscience. At a certain time of life no one can escape the verdict of God. Therefore God’s judgement does not frighten you. There exists a judgement of contemporaries and of those to follow.

The problem of free choice of one’s country of residence—the far among human liberties enshrined in the Concluding Act to a quite limited aspect—reunification of separated families, has been in the agenda of the USSR government. Nevertheless, even this limited step was raised in the souls of their people. Their fates, it became obvious were no longer considend as an internal affair of any state. Arbitrariness, it seemed, was in a narrow humanitarian question was put to an end.

Four months have passed since the signing of the Concluding Act of the Helsinki Session. This is a sufficient term to determine the tendencies which have arisen.

I shall endeavour to analyse these tendencies, using an example which I am most familiar with—the story of Jewish emigration from the USSR. Certainly—and I would like to emphasize it—I am not taking into account views and conceptions of Academician Sakharov. But then a natural question arises. Why, within many years not one of you as scientists, refutes or at least to discuss his ideas using generally accepted methods of scientific debate? Did you not have every opportunity of doing so? Or might not you have anything to say in the course of scientific discussions? Instead you have chosen the way which was unfortunately used already before?

You put your signatures under the paper where Academician Sakharov’s conceptions were staked by means of signatures of taken out of context half-quotations. You as scientists understand only too well that this kind of approach is not only unconvinving but surely intolerable. Meanwhile, by means of such approach you attempt to proclaim Academician Sakharov as an anti-patriotic person and antagonist of detente.

Who is right, believe, that Andrei Sakharov, a scientist and a humanist, just as well as other sensible people, this situation might be hostile to genuine detente? The three times Hero of Socialist Labour of the USSR, the many times Hero of the USSR Academician Sakharov has done for the might of this country more than anyone else among scientists nowadays. Is that not actual patriotism?

Many of you who have known Andrei Sakharov personally cannot but believe that he is always impelled by profound love for his people and for the whole of mankind. Thumbing through the pages provides a treasure trove of information not only about Pout but also about Paris during and after the 1914 War. Indeed, while Pout's sparse appetite for being unpublished is provided with a veritable gastronomic guide to the best eating in wartime Paris. (Sole from Felix more's, then backed up by the Dead, while Nancy Hopkins, John Kahn, and Ron Toot do most of the work on the other cuts. As such the album is rather schizoid, but certainly half Dead is better than no half!)

The Four Dead cuts are previously unreleased cuts that should be familiar to collectors of old Graceful Dead concert tapes (more good songs though "Might As Well" and "Come A Time" are probably the best). For the covers marketed by Donna Jean Godchaux joins in on vocals, Matthew Kelly on guitar, and Chuck Herrold on drums. The original band seemed to be pretty much a showcase for Mr. Weir. Now, after a year of playing together, the album displays clearly that this is a well-rounded, tight-knot group where every member makes an important contribution to the music.

Mike Bobby's music is thoroughly musical and inspirational leader of the band, but now Tobert Gunzberg has most of all of them. In addition, Kelly has proved to be a worthwhile member especially because of his formidable drumming. Meanwhile Robby Hoddinott's guitar has had no troubles laying down a really flashy lead and Herrold's drumming can certainly not be faulted.

As opposed to the dreamlike quality of most of Garcia's album, Kingfish does a lot of honest rock and roll. In addition the songs themselves are a joy to listen to and the songs they perform are more the best Kingsfng songs are bold threats at life. For instance, there is "Good Bye, Your Honor" where Tobert sings about jumping ball: "Tell the prosecutor He's a lousy loser He's trying to nully my life style He set that date Tell him not to wait, I won't be comin' to my trial."
