Bunburner Takes 11th at Ontario Motor Speedway

By Spencer Klein

Last weekend a bicycle from Northrup University went 24.5 miles per hour to set a new human powered speed record. The two weekend events, White Lightening's third event, the 35 kilometer road race and a one hour road race, except it tipped over on the third curve. It was ridden by Alec Brooks, a grad student. Last year it took fourth, and this year a similar design, only ridden by good bicycle racer (the same one who flew the Gosseram Condor took fourth.)

The other Tech entry was scheduled to be a new design. It was designed by Dave Switzer and Alex Brooks. Unfortunately, it was not finished in time, and so he had to make another. Pat Huber rode his relatively standard ten-speed (with only a small windshild added for streamlining). He did reasonably well, taking 31st out of about 45 vehicle entered. He said that he thought that Pat would have done better, but his first run was not timed, and so he had to make another. Pat thought that he could have done better, but his first run was not timed, and so he had to make another. According to one official, "They didn't know that he was coming." They also said that the wind was out of the time zone when he wasn't, and so he slowed down. He reported that these two things cut 5-7 miles per hour off of his 27 mph run. It is conceivable that he could have made the finals if not for these two things.

There were several very unusual looking bikes entered. There was one two-worm bike where the two worms were double deckered on boards. Another, the Small, had three wheels and was called that for the namesake. Another tricycle type had three foot aluminum wheels. Several entries consisted of speeds covered with a plastic. Ten programs of the series will be woven into the narrative. The first film, as the alternate feature will be The Naked Night: With Tinsel and Tinsel. The Naked Night: With Tinsel and Tinsel. The Winter Light. This week Cinematech returns with Scurves and Scurves, and Tinsel and Tinsel. The first film, as the alternate style suggests, is about a circus. The circus holds a special place in the cinema. In a circus little is what it actually seems and the billing of the truth can always be portrayed through the mask of a clown. Bergman makes outstanding use of the camera to give us a world that excludes the normal. Throughout the film the viewer is given another aspect and left to its own judgement to recognize the parallels and counterpoints. The second film of the evening is Bergman's second in his religious trilogy. The film arises from Bergman's desire to define man's relation to God provided He exists. The story revolves around a pivotal point in Bergman's career. His film expression became more subtle. He is telling similar stories compared to his other films, in The Naked Night: With Tinsel and Tinsel. The Winter Light. The first film, as the alternate style suggests, is about a circus. Bette Davis: she "just made the movies."

Tuesday night in Beckman Auditorium, as soon as the last film clip flashed off the screen, the spotlight shone bright and Bette Davis, in that famous walk, strode to the velvet chair on stage carrying a cigarette as only she does, puffed on it, exhaled, and exclaimed "What is that all about?" As she took on her role as Margo Channing in ALL ABOUT EVE, "Fasten your seat belts, it's going to be a bumpy night!"

After her entrance, Miss Davis answered questions put to her by members of the audience. Her style was gracious and funny, with that special air of absolute calm that comes from her own strong convictions coming through. When asked who acted, she mentioned George Brent, making the comment that he could have been a great star if he had been more ambitious; and Spencer Tracy, whom she admired more than any other actor, even though she remarked that they "did it together," "If you blinked your eye, you missed me."

Mary Astor was her favorite actress, but she told an anecdote about herself and Joan Crawford in BABY JANE. The producer had a great deal of difficulty raising money for a movie featuring "two old broads," so the movie was filmed in only three weeks. Contrary to gossip, Miss Crawford and Miss Davis did not feud throughout the filming. "We didn't have time," said Miss Davis.

Her own personality, which seemed to want to depress the pretentious and unrealistic image of her fans, was revealed by answers to several questions. When a young woman thanked Miss Davis for providing entertainment for herself, her mother and her grandmother, and rather embarrassedly said that her qualifying exams "I think it's scandalous to have such behavior at Caltech and am going to add the FMKC rule to Force him back until he gets his degree."

LC ATED ON LAKE ½ BLOCK NORTH OF CALIFORNIA
Louis Testa had his stack set to open when his phone was rung 34 times. When he returned from Disneyland Wednesday, he found that thoughtful underclassmen thought he should have gone to the beach, so they brought it to him.

In Dabney House, all of West 5 alley was brute force stacked. It was quickly broken, and signs warning of self defense gasgung mechanisms proved false. Inside, all of the senior rooms were stacked. Chris Reed, one of the occupants, found that his offer of a bribe was refused, and that his room (except for the walls) was moved down to the Blacker-Dabney courtyard. For some reason, they didn't like a 25 pound bag of dog food.

Ed Bielecki's stack, consisting of a treasure hunt, was not broken. The first clue was hidden 15 miles up the Angeles Crest Highway. The second, which was not found, was back on campus, as was the fourth. The third and fifth were hidden back up Angeles Crest Highway.

Eric Lucha's stack was notable for its simplicity. The clue was "Eternal Flame." To get in, you just had to heat up the doornob enough to make some paraffin melt.

A chess stack was the last real stack to be broken in Ricketts. To open it, you had to find all possible solutions to three chess problems, and go look for the key in a place mentioned in a note in a book in Millikan, whose call number could be found by solving the problems. The meager bribe of bagels, a chocolate cake, and some opened bags of munchies was refused (this was shortly after opening Nelson Lee's huge bribe). The door mechanism from Nelson's room was moved into Josh Rothenburg's room, and he had to get back in through a window.

Jesse Slater and Chris Sexton prepared a trivia quiz on Fleming seniors and graduates for their stack. It was solved, and the clue said to look under Millikan Bridge. When some Flems looked in Millikan Pond they found a key, but the key didn't work. The real key was found in the nick of time, hidden under the bridge of Millikan statue's nose.

Marc Berger, of Lloyd House, had a stack based on astronomy. The clue consisted of two numbers, which were eventually recognized as the coordinates of the sun at 5pm on ditch day. A photocell on the roof was set up to be illuminated by the sun at 5pm, allowing entry. To get in, you had to illuminate the photocell.

In all, it was an exciting ditch day, highlighted by many more stacks than last year.

You shouldn’t have to change banks every time you change lifestyles.

Graduation is one time you change lifestyles. But it’s certainly not the only time.

It happens when you move. It happens when you get married. It happens when you have children, take a new job, and so on.

The point is, you shouldn’t have to worry about changing banks every time it happens.

And if your bank is Bank of America, you might not have to worry at all.

For starters, with nearly twice as many locations as any other California bank, we’re usually close by. If you’re moving within California, it’s easy to transfer your account to whichever branch is most convenient for you.

Next, we offer a wide range of checking plans to fit your changing needs. Like our All-in-One® Checking Plan, with several services in one simple package, including BankAmerica Travelers Cheques, commission-free when purchased at any of our California branches. We also offer loans for important needs that may crop up along the roads ahead. And BankAmericard® Visa® and Master Charge® if you qualify, to give you ready credit when you need it.

We give you a choice of savings plans, too. From Regular Savings Accounts to long-term, higher-yield Investors Passbooks and Certificates of Deposit.

Later on, whether you need trust services or safe deposit service, we can help you there, too. In fact, chances are whatever changes you make, Bank of America can probably help you make them easier.

We even have available for you a continuing series of free Consumer Information Reports, helpful guides on such financial matters as “How To Establish Credit,” “Personal Money Planner,” and “Ways To Save Your Money.” They’re available at all our branches to help you through some of the changes. So why not stop by and talk things over.

We serve more Californians than any other bank. And we’d like to serve you.

Benton attended induction ceremonies at the Academy's 53rd annual meeting in New Haven, April 14-15.

A member of the Caltech faculty since 1965, Benton has a PhD from Princeton and a BA from Haverford College. He was a Fulbright Research Professor at the University of Reims in 1972.

Currently Benton is studying the application of space-age image processing techniques to the reading of historical documents. He is scheduled to deliver an address on the subject to the Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres in Paris in June.

around a priest who is mourning the death of his wife. He is incapable of feeling any tender­ness for anyone. A fisherman who is petrified with fear of the atom bomb tries to see the priest for consolation. The priest is unable to offer anything to the fisherman.

All this time there is a schoolmistress who worships the priest. The ending of the film is very powerful with the priest beginning a Mass for an empty Church.
