Records Set Amid 3 Losses

by Doug Oute

The Beavers took their lumps again last week, but amidst the bad there was plenty of good to talk about. The Beavers broke seven school records in their series with the Claremont Mudd Stags, and are now well on their way to being the best Caltech team that ever played the game.

On Saturday Kurt Schwartz began the march through the record books by singling in the top of the second inning. This hit broke the record for most hits in a season by a Caltech team. The Beavers weren't able to drive him in, and did not score any runs until the fifth inning. In the sixth inning, the Beavers scored two more runs to break the school run record for a season. Wondering what record the Beavers would break next provided about the only tension in the game, however, as Caltech suffered from a lackluster pitching performance and surrendered 12 runs to the Stags on route to a 12-3 defeat. Kurt Schwartz and Doug Shors provided the offensive punch for the Beavers, each collecting two hits in three at bat.

The second game started off with a bang. In the top of the first, Ed Casey lashed a double into the left field, and Jim Hamrick crunched a pitch deep into center field for a triple. This triple broke the record for most triples in a season by a Caltech team.

The Beavers scored again in the inning and held the Stags to one, to take a 2-1 lead after one inning. The Beavers didn't get any more runs in the game. Coupled with the sore-armed Caltech pitching staff, this spelled disaster, and the Beavers went down in flames, 17-2. The Beavers did manage to steal two bases in the game, however, and this broke the record for stolen bases by a team in a season.

On Tuesday, Michael Keating returned from illness with a twelve game hitting streak on the line to help the Beavers against the Stags. It looked like the Beavers were going to have another long game when they fell behind 5-0 after three and a half innings of play.

Caltech rallied in the bottom of the fourth to score three runs, highlighted by Doug Shor's RBI single. The Beavers gave up five more runs. In the bottom of the ninth, Michael Keating, hitless in four trips to the plate, stepped in to try to keep his hitting streak alive. With two strikes, Keating ripped a fastball into the gap in left center and motored around the bases for a home run. Not only did this extend Keating's hitting streak to 13 games, it broke the school record for most homeruns in a season. This gave the Beavers a little something to smile about, even though they lost 10-4.

Latent baseball fans, this is your final chance to see what may be the finest Caltech baseball team ever in action. In the last homestand of the season, the Beavers play Whittier on Saturday at Caltech. Bring your suntan lotion and come out and see some baseball.

Shuttle Astronaut To Visit Tuesday

Caltech News Bureau

Dr. Ron McNair, the second black astronaut to serve on a space shuttle mission, will speak in Winnett Center at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, May 1.

Dr. McNair will attend a luncheon at Caltech's Athenaeum with President Marvin L. Goldberger, Dr. Lew Allen, director of JPL, Mr. Mal De Cuir of the Passino Company, and Caltech students.

The astronaut will also visit Altedena, where he will present a talk for area-wide high school and junior high school students.

An authority on laser physics, Dr. McNair received his bachelor's degree in physics from North Carolina A&T State University in 1971, and his PhD in physics from MIT in 1976, under a Ford Foundation fellowship. In 1978, after two years as a staff physicist with Hughes Laboratories in Malibu, he was selected as an astronaut candidate by NASA. He served as mission specialist on the shuttle flight launched in February 1984.

Dr. McNair's visit was initiated by the youth group of the local NAACP, acting on the advice of Del Yarborough, assistant principal of Eliot Junior High School. Funding for his trip was provided by the NAACP-Pasadena Police Department "Run for Justice" 5-K run at the Rose Bowl, under the leadership of Carolyn Carlburg of the NAACP. The run was underwritten by Anheuser-Busch.

Further information on Dr. McNair's visit to Caltech may be obtained from Dr. Munger at (818) 356-4468.

Cinemathech Presents Two Movies

McCarthyism underlies Front

by David Marvit

The Front has been accurately described as a "painfully funny indictment of our shameful fifties by the few artists who survived it." This strange painful humor is what has always suited Woody Allen the best.

The Front was directed and produced by formerly blacklisted Martin Ritt (Souther, Cross Creek). It stars Woody Allen and Zero Mostel. Allen plays a "front" for blacklisted screenwriters. Despite his absence of literary talent, he rises to a position of great fame by putting his name on other people's works and selling it for a portion of the pay.

Breakfast is Sweet for Holly

by Lily Wu

Breakfast at Tiffany's is one of the sweetest and simplest films that there is. Based on Truman Capote's novella, it is about a young girl who leaves her bleak Arkansas family to move to New York City in the 1950's (changing her name in the process from Lulamae Barnes to Holly Golightly) to find a rich husband. She leads the life of a socialite-call girl going from party to party always with a careful eye on who is really wealthy and who the phonies are.

On a deeper level though, Holly is simply searching for something that will make her happy and give her a reason

Techers Canvass For Freeze

By Hossein Mohammad

Caltech students will be among the volunteers from all over Southern California who will kick off a day of citywide canvassing for the Freeze Voter '84 campaign tomorrow at St. Edmond's Episcopal Church.

If a significant number of students from Caltech and other local colleges participate in tomorrow's activities, the students at the Caltech Nuclear Freeze Campaign group can claim much credit.

The informal, almost impromptu organization is the latest addition to Caltech's little growing list of activist organizations in a school year that has been marked with an unusual flurry of political events, both campus-related and unrelated. The small group of Caltech undergraduates and graduate students has been canvassing the undergraduate and graduate houses, and hopes to have reached enough interested people to have a significant Caltech contribution to tomorrow's local effort.

According to Charles Hershey, a junior in Electrical Engineering who is one of the prime organizers of the Caltech group, the group got its start by setting up a table at third term registration. Some forty people signed up to receive relevant information or help with the group. That list has now grown to about a hundred people.

During the past few weeks, members have launched an in-house canvassing effort with the aim of "identifying and reaching people at Caltech who are sympathetic with the concept of a bilateral verifiable nuclear freeze," states Benjamin Frisch, a graduate student who has been canvassing graduate residences.

Hershey emphasizes that the canvassing effort has been aimed not at "converting" people to the cause of a nuclear freeze, nor at putting up arguments for the freeze, but simply at identifying those at Caltech who support the freeze.

This follows the national Freeze Voter '84 Campaign, which hopes to mobilize enough freeze voters to affect the outcome of the November elections.

The day of canvassing will start with breakfast at St. Edmond's Episcopal Church and end with a party.

ASCIT Notes

Secretary Election on Monday

Following are the candidates' statements:

The major responsibility of the ASCIT Secretary is to keep an official record of the proceedings of all Board of Director meetings, and to post and distribute copies very soon after each meeting. This is an important job because it is the primary method of making the BOD's actions known to ASCIT members. As secretary I will prepare clear and concise minutes at BOD meetings, and I will distribute the minutes quickly. I am sincerely interested in doing this job, and I hope that you will vote for me on Monday.

—Irene Replogle

Hi, I'm running for the office of ASCIT secretary. After considering my reasons for wanting the position, the most concise response is that I want to be involved in more than just the academic life of Caltech. The opportunity to learn more about Tech and to have an impact on the student life seems interesting and enjoyable.

As secretary, my major duty would be to record and distribute minutes of the Board of Directors meetings. I also hope that I would be able to produce positive input to the BOD. I offer my dedication, hard work, and time to write for the students of Tech and hope that you will vote for me on Monday. Thanks.

—Joy Watanabe

Having been active in my house, I would now like to extend my involvement to campus affairs. The most valuable aspect of Caltech life is the existence of the honor system. The closeness of the community, the trust among the students, and the slight easing of academic pressure by take-home exams are all due to the honor code. It is this extraordinary institution that has helped me to decide to stay at Caltech. For this reason, I would like to take an active role in its maintenance. Thank you.

—Lisa Cummings

I am running for the position of ASCIT secretary. I feel I would be qualified for and capable of this job. I have had prior experience in student government, both in high school (I was student body Treasurer) and here at Tech (last year I was an ASCIT Excomm member and worked on such thing as the election procedure & BOC evaluation). I can also take reasonable notes which are occasionally funny and witty. Please consider me for this office and remember to vote. Thank you.

—Paul Haase

Untouchables to Entertain 3 Colleges; Sign up for Formal

Tomorrow, ASCIT proudly welcomes students from Occidental and Claremont to the Caltech campus for a great Dance Party! We'll start this going on the Quad at about 8 p.m.

Our freshman will be joined by theirs for a Barbeque-Social on the Olive Walk beforehand, starting at 5 p.m.

Things will be pretty crazy, as we're expecting a couple thousand people! To be safe, all Techers should lock their rooms and secure their valuables. The House Social Teams will be busy setting up tomorrow, and if can help, it will be greatly appreciated.

Now is the time to sign up for the Formal, reserve tables, and select wines. Signups will disappear at 12 midnight Mondays. The Flower Peddlers on Colorado (793-0058) are offering a 10 percent discount off their already reasonably priced Corsages and Boutonnieres to Techers. The Social Teams will have Tux info early next week.

and motivation to be. In her own words, when the blues or the mean reds hit, one has to have something like Tiffany's, solid and stable to soothe the nerves. Conflicting with her need is her morbid fear of belongin to someone or having someone belong to her. Inevitably, Holly finds that a rich husband is not the answer to her search.

Paralleling Holly's search for happiness is her neighbor's. Living in the next apartment is a kept writer who hasn't written anything for years and is trying to regain his old self-respect and literary aspirations.

This 1961 film is packed full of endearing performances from Audrey Hepburn and George Peppard with supporting help from Mickey Rooney, Patricia Neal, Buddy Ebsen and Martin Balsam. Henry Mancini provided the film with its Academy Award winning song and score, "Moon River."

Breakfast at Tiffany's is a movie with a laugh and a thought for everyone, especially those who are afraid to, but have secretly dreamed or hoped anyway.

Lloydies Object to Vandalism

To the Editor:

We the undersigned members of Lloyd house wish to express our feelings about a recent incident. After House elections last term, Lloyd House decided to begin subscribing to several magazines. The magazines to be ordered, one of which was Penthouse, were decided on by a House survey. The first issue of Penthouse arrived late last week. On Monday morning, it was found with its cover intact but all the inner pages burnt. A second copy was purchased later that afternoon, and within 3 hours was found in the library with its cover intact, but all the inner pages shredded.

We see this willful destruction of Lloyd House property as a violation of the spirit of the community in which we live. It is an attempt to force the values of (a) particular individual(s) on the whole community in an anti-intellectual manner. Also we do not think vandalism is a proper way to seek the redress of grievances or voice disapproval.

In the spirit of the honor code, we hope that the person(s) responsible will apologize to the members of Lloyd House and present the house with another copy of the magazine. Then we will discuss in an intelligent manner any complaints that may arise. Thank you. (Please note: The above views are those of the undersigned and not necessarily those of Lloyd House as a whole.)

Blacker: [Edited -Eds.]

Dabney: No entry.

Fleming: No entry.

Page: This is it, Dudes and Dudesses!! The 7-House blowout tomorrow night shall prove to be TOTALLY awesome. Get out of your room, quit trolling, and party. (Scott, this is your chance to make an in-depth study on the metabolism of alcohol and the effects on reaction time, don't miss it.)

The Beach last Saturday was fantastic. Too bad I was the only one to go.

EMBO alley (however, more appropriately dubbed CLEAT alley) retained the coveted bowling pin after a well-fought friendly game of touch football. —G-Man at Large

Lloyd: Who says Lloyd is a dull place to live?

Let's see, start from the beginning. The Easter egg hunt/brunch was a big success. The kitchen staff says thank you for the cake, Sunney. Everyone there seemed to enjoy themselves, including all the faculty present.

The frosh have begun cries of "The seniors are wimps, especially so-and-so!" It makes them very popular with the seniors. Who knows, we may turn these frosh into real, studly Lloydies yet.

Someone has been mutilating the LLOYD House copies of Penthouse, which is not appreciated by other members of the house.

The Great Flood was narrowly averted Wednesday evening thanks to the efforts of Yosufi, John, Charles, and myself. Remind me never to overfill the hottub again.

The lower Headquarters/upper KAOS spiderweb appears to be a big success. That was one huge spider. —Rod

Ricketts: Alright everybody, get off my back. So I forgot to do the Inside World last week when I actually had something real to write about. You see on Saturday April 14 things really happened. Not only was it the night that there were actually two parties on campus with live bands including the I-publicans at the Blacker/Ricketts party in Ricketts, it was a day that will live in infamy. That's right, this was a day that regardless of the 1st stage smog alert, the Big Maroon Machine brought home the Discobolus trophy for the first time in 5 years in Track and Field against Ruddock! With Scurves placing first in every event except the shotput, it was not even necessary to run the final event. Then the next week the brakedrum returned from its vacation to taunt the freshman class. Then at noon on Easter Sunday Ricketts defended the discobolus in football against Fleming. By the way Ed (FI-Inside World), we're Slimeballs not Scumballs. Please get your terminology correct. Also, Clea is definitely the wrong caliber so try someone else. Anyway, in case your still wondering we lost although we did manage to hold them at the end of the game to beat the point spread 62-0 (If you haven't guessed the point spread use your imagination). PS Anyone who's seen a gold plated gummy running loose please direct him to Ricketts. Thanks. —Bob Bolender

Ruddock: Okay, back to the wonderful world of Ruddock House.

Last weekend we had a powerful beach party in the penthouse - a lot of people showed up; we had good dancing, good daquiris, and just a good time.

Though it took him over a year to get it going, Jim Helgren finally got a trend started: Vans have been declared the official shoe of Alley 4.

Also, as strange as it may seem, Mr. Douglas Evans has been seen (hallucinated?) in the halls of Ruddock. Departed ghosts roam the house, or something like that.

This weekend of course is the big party. I won't say much, because I think we've all heard about it, but I hope everyone goes out and has a good time.

I gotta run now. The cold-grinding grizzly bear jaws are hot on my heels. So until next time, take it as it comes. —Hos

Meanwhile, formerly well respected performers are suffering from the ever-tightening noose of McCarthyism.

There is an unfortunate reality behind the comic surface of the film, and we are made to feel it. During McCarthy's reign, an Oscar for best screenplay was given to a man who barely spoke English. He was who Woody Allen depicts in this week's film. He was a front. The American film industry has never recovered from the blow dealt by the communist witch-hunt of the fifties. Television has suffered even more. Some modern historians argue that McCarthyism is responsible for television's current low quality. When television programming was in its inception, when the rules which would be followed for decades to come were being established, controversy and critical self-analysis were taboo. Everyone was simply afraid to put that kind of stuff on the tube. Television still hasn't recovered.

The truthful underpinnings of the film make its humor all the more penetrating. After all, isn't humor the best way to deal with adversity? The Front exposes a painful side of American history, and it does it in the most subversive way of all—it makes us laugh.
